7:00– 9:00 PM

About the Workshop:

Elementary teachers, special education teachers, tutors, and parents will gain insight into theory, methods, materials and activities for teaching handwriting. The goal of this session is to equip instructors with structured multisensory techniques to help students develop legible, stress free handwriting. Print will be covered but the emphasis will be on cursive.

About Alice Marsel:

Ms. Marsel is the current assistant director for the Scottish Rite Learning Center of Austin. She has been an academic language therapist for nearly 30 years and a qualified instructor for fifteen years. She comes to us from Payne Education Center in Oklahoma City where she served as Program Director and Trainee Mentor. Ms. Marsel received her BS in Education from Syracuse University and MA in Education from University of Alabama in Birmingham. She has worked in numerous private schools in Texas and Oklahoma City as a reading teacher and consultant and was an adjunct instructor at Oklahoma City University and Oklahoma City Community College. She is an active member of the International Dyslexia Association and ALTA, and she serves on the Austin Area Branch IDA Board.
